ADDICKS'S IF MEANS ADDICKS.

REGULARS REFUSE TO CAUCUS WITH UNION FACTION.

That Would Mean Fither Two of Addicks's Lieutenants for Senators or Addicks Himself and One Regular-No Action Will Be Taken Until Monday.

DOVER. Del., Feb. 6 .- The Delaware situation is more critical than ever ow." said a leading Democrat of lower Delaware, when about to leave the capital to-night. "Addicks is back into the fight, has twenty-one votes and can get twentyfive, and Bapresentative Paradee, Democrat, is a very sick man. Mr. Paradee left his bed to-day and went through the buttle scarcely able to hold his head up."

When J. Edward Addicks withdrew from the Senatorial struggle yesterday he was convinced, and rightly so, that the Union Republicans, having twenty-one of the thirty-one Republican Assemblymen, would never submit to divide the Senatorships with the Regulars. He was also confident that his withdrawal would turn the tide in his favor in State and nation and further, that the Regular Republicans would never consent to enter a caucus in which they would be obliged to assist in the election of two Addicks lieutenants to the United States Senate seats, so long honored by distinguished Delawareans.

During the twenty-two hours, there fore, in which the people of Delaware knew him not as a Senatorial candidate. he managed to break the anti-Addicks Republican ranks down to eight. Stirling. of D.Pont's own district, had to come back into the fold in order to give Col Di Pont the eight which he received for the short term, Congressman Louis Heisler Ball being substituted for him for the long term.

Legislation was entirely forgotten to-day Immediately upon the arrival of the anti Addicks Republicans at the Capito they found the Addicks men waiting for them in the House parlor where they had called their caucus.

Representatives Price, Tyre and Derrickson. R gulars, went in, but were called out again by Representative Flinn, leader of the Regulars, and drawn into the Regular Republican caucus, which had already tegun in the offices of State Auditor

The Regulars, half an hour later, sent a committee, Sparks, Bancroft and Flinn, up to the Union Republican caucus with the counter-proposition to go into a caucus as suggested, provided that Addicks was really e-immated and provided further that the anti-Addicks faction might have one Senator.

They retired and another half hour of They retired and another half hour of suspense brought a crowd into the State House corridors. Then a committee from the Unions came down to the Regular conference. Mesers. Conner and Townsend, the committee, informed the Regulars of two propositions. One was that of entering a joint caucus to abide by the majority rule on both S natorships; the other to hold no caucus, but each side agree to support the nominee for one S natorship chosen by the other side.

the nominee for one S-natorship chosen by the other side.

This giving of each faction its own choice looked well for a while, then it dawned upon the Regulars that the choice of the other fellows would be Addicks, and instantly there was "nothing doing." Meantime the Democrats in session in the third story of the Capitol had powerful pressure brought to bear on them to stop the Addicks movement by offering to elect two Regular Republicans.

Former Senator Kenney, their leader in Downstairs the Regulars heard of the rumors of Democratic support of Congress-man Ball and eight of their number agreed to nominate him. Then Col. Dupont was changed to the short-term nominee, which had the effect of bringing back the truant senator Stirling

Down rushed Connor and Townsend, the I nion Republican committee, again, and, entering the Regular caucus, importuned them not to accept any Democratic over-

"We have nothing else to do," was the answer. "They propose to support our nominees and you will not even allow one nominee un'ess we agree to Addicks."

"We'll, don't coalesce to-day with Democrats, and we will grant you an extension

f time on the propositions eliminating Addicks, each side to support its own caucus for both terms to-day, reply of Senator Connor by authority of the Addicks conference. "We will allow you until Monday or any reasonable time before withdrawing the proposition not to support Addicks."

This was agreed to and the Democrats then decided to hold off nominating for to-day and to-morrow former Congressman Levin Irving Handy and former Governor

There was a crush to get into the hall of the House of Representatives by this time, the noon hour having arrived. Addicks, who remained at the capital after his conditional withdrawal, occupied a front seat during all the balloting which resulted as follows:

Long term-John Edward Addicks (Union Long term—John Edward Addicks (Union Rep.), 21: Levin Inving Handy 'Dem.), 21: Louis Heisler Ball (Regular Rep.), 8; Anthony Higgins (Regular Rep.), 2; Short term—John Edward Addicks (Union Rep.), 10; Ebe W. #### TO PREVENT RISING OF MOBS. Bill in Connecticut Making Every Citizer

Personally Liable. DERBY, Conn., Feb. 6.-An effort to prevent the rising of mobs and the injury to individuals and destruction of private property by them, by making every citizen ersonally liable for a proportionate share of the damage done and for the expense of calling out the militia, is being made in the Connecticut Lagislature.

William H. Williams, the S ate's Attorney for New Haven County, who lives in Derby has drawn a bill which has been introduced by Judge John Hubbard of Litchfield, member of the Judiciary Committee, which makes the towns, cities or boroughs responsible for injury to property or person. I requires the town to pay to the Sate the expense of maintaining the militia if the troops are called out to quell disturbances The town is reimbursed by a direct tax laid on all male persons between the ages of 21 and 70. Every town shall be liable for all injuries to person or property (including injuries causing death) when such injuries are caused by any act of violence of any person or persons while a member of or acting in concert with, any neb, riotous assembly, or while a member of or acting in concert with any assembly of persons engaged in disturbing the public peace.

Sec. 2. Every town shall be liable to the State for all expenses incurred in calling out or providing any portion of the militia of the State to prevent or to suppress any riotous assembly, to afford protection to persons or property, or to aid in the preservation of the public peace. Provided, that if such expense is incurred to prevent or suppress any riotous assembly, or to afford protection to persons or property, or to aid in the preservation of the public peace, within the limits of any borough or city, then in such case such borough or city and not the town shall be liable to the State for such expense.

lower Delaware, then retreated to a position where he advocated the election of one Regular like Congressman Louis Heisler Ball, leaving the other Senatorship open for a time.

Charles W. McFee, who was sent here from Washington by prominent Democrats of the nation, who had heard in advance of the Addicks withdrawal and who represents the old guard of Delaware Democrats, was fighting hard for the acceptance of his proposition to support two Regular Republicans.

We are defeated after all our years of fighting, gentlemen," said Mr. McFee, "and where is our salvation? Mr. Addicks has made a move that will surely elect him sooner or later, and we must checkmate it summarily."

The police of all surrounding towns were notified and any one known to Mrs. Pech that she might have visited was communicated with.

Sec. 6. The First Selectman of every town, the Mayor of every city and the Warden of the Mayor of every borough shall between the first and the Warden of every borough shall between the first and the major paid by his town, city or beginning and certify the same in within such town city of September, preceding, and certify the same in writing between the list and 10th day of September, preceding, and certify the same in writing between the list and 10th day of September, preceding, and certify the same in writing between the list and 10th day of September, preceding, and certify the same in writing between the list and 10th day of September, preceding, and certify the same in writing between the list and 10th day of September, preceding, and certify the same in writing between the first and 10th day of September, preceding, and certify the same in writing between the first and 10th day of September, preceding, an borough, under the provisions of this act, as aforesaid, equally upon all male persons within such town, city or borough between the ages of 21 and 70 years, who shall be liable to pay the same to such town, city or borough as a special poli tax. Such special poli tax shall be payable at the same time and be collected in the same manner as the poli taxes are now payable and collected.

The method of collecting this tax is one calculated to make a man think once or twice before taking part in a riot. The collector can, if the poll tax is not paid, issue a warrant and seize the debtor's body and after trial, if the debtor is found quilty, he may be sentenced to its!

body and after trial, if the debtor is found guilty, he may be sentenced to jail and must there work out not only the tax, but the costs of the proceedings at $1 a day.

Under the present law the money for paying damage claims comes out of the property tax and in mill towns, therefore, those men who have been injured most by the mobs have to pay the largest part of the tax. Under the proposed law the man who throws the rocks will have to pay as heavily as the man who owns the window, and more heavily than the corporation which owns the cars or the mills. It is believed the act will also make the cool-headed people use greater effort to suppress the riotous.

MRS. PECK DEAD, UNDER CLIFF.

DIED AS PROF. WALDO'S WIFE DID, 16 YEARS AGO.

At That Time Mrs. Peck Was Much Inter ested in the Search and Deeply Impressed by Mrs. Waldo's Death Yale University Turned Out to Search

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 6.-The body Mrs. Tracy Peck, wife of Prof. Tracy Peck, p ofessor of Latin in Yale Univer sity, was found this morning at 10 o'clock at the foot of the forty-foot cliff in Fort Hale Park, about five miles from this city The university was closed to-day and the students formed searching parties to scour the country for Mrs. Peck. It is almost exactly sixteen years ago that all Yale College turned out on a painful search of precisely the same kind. On Feb. 19, 1886, Mrs. Leonard Waldo, wife of the d'rector of the Yale Observatory, while out of her head from fever resulting from childbirth, escaped from her nurse and wandered away from her home. She was discovered late in the afternoon by some students who were hunting for her on the side of Pine Rock, a couple of miles from her home, but before they could reach her she dropped off the rock and was killed. The tragedy naturally made a deep impression on New Haven at the time, and especially on Mrs. Peck, who at that time was an unusually energetic woman and greatly interested in the search. When found to-day, Mrs. Peck had been dead several hours. Her skull was fractured and one leg was broken. It is suggested by those who are familiar with the sad circumstances of the case that Mrs. Peck, while temporarily deranged, wandered from her home in this city yesterday afternoon and made her way to the park where her remains were found to-day One theory is that she was blown from the cliff by the wind. She had not been in the best health for several weeks on account of a severe attack of the grip, but when she left her home at 124 High street, across from the Yale campus, yesterday morning, to go downtown shopping, her daughter noticed nothing unusual in her

At the morning devotional exercises in Bathell Chapel the college chaplain, Dr. F. d., announced that a college mass meeting would be held in Dwight Hall immediately to organize the students who wished to take part in the search for Mrs. Peck. The auditorium of Dwight Hall was crowded. Prof. W. L. Thelps presided. In a brief speech he outlined the purpose of the meeting.

The students immediately afterward reported in squads to Anson Phelps S Jr., secretary of the corporation, who sat wih a map of New Haven before him. Most of the students left on foot, others on bicycles, some on polo penies, some in light carriages and others in automobiles. Every conceivable means was undertaken to secure a clue to the missing woman. A picture of Mrs. Peck was shown to each party as it was sent out.

His Bride the Widow of C. H. Converse-His Divorced Wife One of the Langhorne Girls of Virginia—Her Decree Obtained in Richmond for Desertion.

Robert Gould Shaw, 2d, the Boston clubman and millionaire, who was divorced by his wife in Richmond last Wednesday, was married yesterday morning to Mrs Mary Converse, widow of C. H. Converse of Newton, Mass. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Nash of the North Baptist Church, 234 West Eleventh street.

Mr. Shaw and Mrs. Converse, Dr. Nash says, drove up to the church at about 10 o'clock with another man and woman. who acted as witnesses. He refused to tell the names of the other couple.

He said he was told that Mr. Shaw had been divorced, but added that he didn' know it had occurred so recently.

The first Mrs. Shaw, before her marriage. was Miss Nannie Langhorne, the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chiswell L. Langhorne of Mirador, Va. She is a sister of Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson. She was married to Mr. Shaw on Oct. 27, 1997. After the Albermarle County Horse Show last August Mrs. Shaw, it is said, returned to her home and her husband went to Boston to live. A little later an action for divorce was begun by Mrs. Shaw in the V.rginia courts on the charge of desertion. The question of alimony was settled out of court, and Judge Daniel A. NO DIVORCE FOR DR. BURCH.

The Appellate Division Discredits III Negro Palmist Witness. The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, in a unanimous decision, has reversed the judgment of Justice Truax in granting, on the report of Referee Charles H. Knox, a decree of absolute divorce to Dr. Thomas Hamilton Burch of 108 West Fifty-seventh street. His wife, Elizabeth Bancroft Burch, had brought a suit against him for a separation. The Appellate Court orders a new trial before a different referee appointed to take testimony. Mrs. Burch is suing for a separation of the ground of cruelty. He then asked for an absolute divorce. He said that his wife was in the habit of visiting "clairvoyants. soothsayers and persons claiming to possess the power of magic," and administered to him love potions. One was a palmist, Mrs. Lee, at whose home, he said, his wife had interpolation home, he said, his wife had reasconducted herself. The other two lived with Mrs. Lee. Mrs. Burch admitted having bought a love potion from the palmist, but denied the charges of miscenduct.

The Appellate Division says that the evidence of the negro witnesses was vague and unreliable and fails to establish the commission of the effect.

MAYORAL PROPOSAL SPRUNG ON REPUBLICAN LEADERS.

If Missionaries Visit the Districts to Tell What Great Things This Administration Has Done, You See, It May Be a Good Thing-Leaders Thinking of It.

The first judication that there is to be a municipal campaign in New York city next fall came to light yesterday, when it was made known that some of Mayor Low's riends have discussed with representatives of the New York Republican County Committee the advisability of bringing the Mayor's administration into closer touch with the organization which a year ago last fall cast 85 per cent. of the vote for the election of the fusion ticket.

Since the Mayor's inauguration it has been apparent in Republican county or-ganization circles that the Mayor and the Democrats who were elected on the ticket with him have not jumped over particularly high fences in their efforts to remem ber with appreciation the organization that cast this aforesaid 85 per cent, of the vote which brought Mayor Low and the entire fusion ticket in a winner. More or less comment has been made in Republican county organization circles over this situation, and frequent murmurs have been heard in odd corners. But for the most part the Republican machine men have aken their medicine like good patients and have not grumbled to any serious

As a matter of fact, the Republican county organization decided early in the Mayor's administration not to hamper him with recommendations for office and it has not in any way thrust itself upon him or upon in any way thrust itself upon him or upon the Democrats who captured the great municipal prizes along with him.

It became known yesterday, though, that certain friends of the Mayor have discussed with influential members of the Republican county organization a plan by which some of the Mayor's friends could come after what they said migrat be accounted to the country what they said migrat be accounted. by which some of the Mayor's friends could soon start what they said might be an educational campaign with the Republican Assembly district organization; that is, that some of the Mayor's friends should visit the thirty-seven Assembly district organizations and give frequent lectures and make speeches as to the great good that Mayor Low's administration has done for the city of New York. In this way, it was argued by the Mayor's friends who discussed this proposition with some of the members of the Republican organization, the rank and file of the county organization could be enlightened as to the ization could be enlightened as to the benefits that have accrued to the citizens of New York city through the Mayor's administration.

11 was said last night that if this educational campaign is adopted, Dock Commissioner Hawkes would without doubt m.ssjoner Hawkes would without doubt be called upon to make speeches in some of the districts, and then it was added that the Mayor has a number of others in his administration who stand willing to visit the district organizations and tell them all about the Mayor's administration and just why he should be rejected.

all about the Mayor's adm n.stration and just why he should be reflected.

You see, there is not a shadow of doubt that the Mayor is to be renominated—all hands agree on that, Citizens' Union, Republicans and all those Democrats who have not, since the municipal campaign of 1900, made strenuous efforts to break into Tammany Hall for any old kind of nomination at the hands of Tammany

The proposition of the Mayor's friends looking toward this educational campaign in the Republican Assembly district organ-zations is undirected by some of the Republican authorities.

BOY A SUICIDE, TIRED OF LIFE.

Coroner Can Find No Other Motive for a Lad's Killing Himself.

"Tired of life" was the only motive which Coroner Jackson could suggest in the case of sixteen-year-old Harry Roscovitz, who committed suicide yesterday morning by drinking carbolic acid. The boy was in good health and was earning a living for himself as errand boy. So far as could be learned he was very regular in his habits. As a rule he was not inclined to brooding. He had had no trouble in his place of employment and had been guilty of no wrongdoing. A theory that his head had been turned by excessive novel reading was denied by the family, who asserted that Harry read the newspapers constantly, but cared read the newspapers constantly, but cared little for books.

The boy, who lived with his parents and his five brothers and sisters on the top floor of a six-story tenement at 133 Monroe street, came home and went to bed as usual on Thursday night. He slept in an improvised bed on the kitchen floor. When his mother came to make fire for breakfast yesterday morning, she found the boy dead.

Another son ran to a physician nearby but was told there he had better notify a policeman and get an ambulance. When a surgeon reached the Roscovitz home, at last, he could only make sure of the boy's death. Young Roscovitz was employed as an errand boy by the Tengwall File and Ledger Company at 87 Maiden Lane and used to collect a good deal of money for them. The company said that his accounts were all right.
